In 1998 we fulfilled a dream by founding Achaval-Ferrer based on two sound principles: the search for the highest quality in all of our products and respect for the terroir. We interpreted that Argentina's quality potential could be pushed to levels in line with the extreme personality of its soil, its plentiful sunshine and the rarity of its ancient ungrafted vineyards, almost an exclusivity in today's world of viticulture. A very pretty estate with vineyards and fruit trees is located in Uco Valley, where it used to be Estancia Atamisque. The estate was purchased in 2006 by a Frenchman, John Du Monceau, who fell in love with the place and decided to settle there with his wife Chantal. Bodega Atamisque's construction began in 2006 and the first harvest was performed in 2007. From the very beginning, the respect for the nature has been emphasized. The winery's surroundings have remained intact with their natural flora, including the regional bush atamisque, chañar, piquillo, cactus and many other varieties. Besides, the catalpa tree that grows in the estate gave origin to the name of the Premium wines line. The 70-hectare vineyards largely supply the needed amount of quality grapes. Bodega Atamisque only buys some Malbec grapes coming from 80-year-old vineyards and some Cabernet Sauvignon grapes coming from ancient vineyards. The production focuses on Premium wines, using first-quality French oak (Taransaud, Demptos) and reaching impressive fruity wines with long aftertaste and not so high alcohol content.

Bodega del Fin del Mundo is the first winery in the Province of Neuquén. Its vineyards are located in San Patricio del Chañar, a place where the agro-environmental conditions are ideal for growing vines. The fantastic temperature range - higher than 20°C between night and day - caused by warm sunny days and cool nights, brings balance to the grapes and gives the wines their color, acidity, aromas and structure. Intense sun rays pass through the almost always clear sky, thus allowing the grapes to ripe in the correct manner. Low humidity and scarce rainfall - only 180 mm a year - keep the vineyard extraordinarily healthy. The first vineyards were planted in 1999 and since then, 2000 hectares were planted, 1000 hectares out of these 2000 would be part of the project to build the winery known as Bodega Del Fin del Mundo. It is important to emphasize that the rest of the existing wineries in San Patricio del Chañar have their origins in the mentioned project. Its 1000 hectare vineyards grow in this Patagonian scenery, naturally healthy and on sandy and stony soils. Distribution is 85% of red grapes, with Cabernet Sauvignon, Malbec, Merlot, Pinot Noir, Tannat, Cabernet Franc and Syrah, and 15% of white grapes, with Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay, Semillón and Viognier.

Bodega Vistalba was built between 2001 and 2004 in a family-owned land at the heart of Vistalba (Luján de Cuyo). This is where Carlos Pulenta developed his personal viticulture project, involving members of his family, consultants, enologists and a valuable group of people who really know this land. The winery is inspired in the Creole culture, resorting to cutting-edge technology and paying homage to traditional wine-making. It has been designed so that the entire winemaking process is completed using gravity and without pumps. The first wines were produced in the year 2003, and they were first placed on the market in the year 2005. Today, its wines are sold in more than 20 countries.

His passion and "savoir faire" did the rest, enabling him to begin producing exceptional wines that have achieved international acclaim and are enjoyed in over twenty countries. Agrelo is world renowned for its opulent and aromatically complex wines. It is located in the western foothills of the Andes mountains and is a part of the Lujan de Cuyo department. The altitude at our estate is 970 m.a.s.l. At this height, sunlight is more intense and grapes ripen during warm days. These sunny days are followed by much cooler nights. The broad thermal amplitude in this region is the district's main feature: it extends the ripening period and balances acidity. Soils in Agrelo are sandy loam with a deeper layer of gravelly stones, made up from eroded, mineral-rich material from the slopes of the Andes. These soils have exceptional drainage. Using drip irrigation, viticulturists are able to carefully control yield and vigor, and produce small berries with an excellent concentration of sugars, acids and tannins.

The winery VALLISTO was created by three partners and winemakers: Hugh Ryman, Marcelo Pelleriti and Francisco Lavaque. The vineyards are located at 1,900 meters above sea level, on the West hillside of the Valley. Cafayate has approximately 340 sunny days per year, helping to grow the grapes with organic conditions. This hillside orientation makes the vineyards receive the softer sunlight, achieving a gradual maturation.

In 2001, a team of Argentine entrepreneurs with a budding interest in wine was just crazy enough to see the raw and untapped potential in the soil of the Alto Valle del Rio Colorado region, located in the northern part of Patagonia. Their vision was complemented by a qualified and courageous group of experts - all with the same pioneering spirit. Together, they would go on to set up shop in a small town named 25 de Mayo, in the province of La Pampa. After listening to and learning from this unique and challenging landscape, the first stages of Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, Syrah, and Chardonnay vines were planted. In 2003 Malbec, Pinot Noir, Sauvignon Blanc and Viognier varieties were added, bringing the vineyard's scale to a full 140 hectares. The group brought in oak barrels from France and The United States, and set up a facility that now measures out to 2,500 square meters dedicated to both production and storage and has a crushing capacity of almost 1.5 million kilos. Bodega del Desierto loves surprising people and has been proudly exceeding presumptions on Patagonian desert viticulture ever since the release of their first group of wines back in 2004.

Established in 1901 by Leoncio Arizu, Bodega Luigi Bosca has a long-standing track record in the winemaking industry. Currently managed by the third and fourth generations of the Arizu family, it is one of the few winemaking firms still owned by its founders. Its reputation, built over the years, has become the paradigm of Argentine wine. The global expansion of Bodega Luigi Bosca has consolidated its more than a hundred years' reputation on the basis of the expertise gained and transferred over the years, the sustainable and homogeneous quality of its wines, and the perpetual search for excellence through innovation and state-of-the-art technology. Today, the Arizu family is proud of a tradition of more than a hundred years old, over which the family has worked hard to improve winemaking techniques, while observing and understanding Nature to give birth to its vision of wine. Hence, they made a commitment to grow with each harvest, and to understand those who choose their wines.
